FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

WITH regard to Genoa, nothing has happened since our last but Skirmishes between the Austrians and the Troops of of the Republick, in which neither Side seems to have got any great Advantage, because it is generally claimed by both; for according to the Austrian Account, the Genoese are reduced to the greatest Distress, and full of intestine Divisions; but according to the Accounts from France, they have had the best of it in most of the Skirmishes, and many of their great Families have united with, and put themselves at the Head of the People. In the mean Time, the French have prepared an Embarkation of 6000 Men at Marseilles and Toulon, to be sent by Sea to Genoa, which, it is said set sail the 17th Instant N.S. for that City. The French and Spanish Army, under Marshal Belleisle, are likewise preparing to pass the Var, in order to march to its Relief; and it is expected, that the Neapolitan Army, assembled upon the Frontiers of the Ecclesiastical State, to the Number of 30,000, will, at the same Time, march towards Lombardy, 4000 Horse of that Army being, by our last Accounts, upon the Point of marching to Foligno, in the Ecclesiastical State, where they are to receive Orders what Rout they are next to take.

As to general Brown's Army, since it repassed the Var, most of the Austrian Horse have marched back to Lambardy for the Sake of Forage, and a great Part of their Infantry have marched to Savona, in order to go and join the Austrian Army designed for besieging Genoa, which is now commanded by Count Schulemberg; so that it seems to be now left entirely to the King of Sardinia, to defend the Passage of the Var against the French and Spaniards.

The fruitless Siege of Antibes, whilst the Austrian army was in Provence, has furnished the French with Matter of Triumph, as appears by the following Account lately sent from that Place: 'At present we are at Liberty to breathe the free Air again, to look about us, and to think of rebuilding our Houses, of which there is not one in this Place, that is not half, and most of them wholly beat down. Our Governor, the Chevalier de Sade, has gained immortal Reputation, and is looked upon as the Saviour of this Country, by the obstinate Defence he made in a Place which hitherto never had the Title of a Fortress; but after having withstood a Bombardment of 36, and a Siege of four Days open Trenches, with a Garrison of scarce 800 Men, we flatter ourselves, that the Name of our Town will be recorded in History; but, in the mean Time, it would please us better, if it were rebuilt. The Austrian General, Baron Roth, fairly cheated us of his Artillery, for his Escort was not strong enough to have protected it, but he mounted wooden Cannon upon his Batteries, which deceived us, till those of Brass were fairly out of Reach.'

However, the French have as yet no great Reason to gasconade, for they have been repulsed and obliged to give over their Design of reducing the little Island of St. Margaret, off of Antibes, where the Austrians left a Garison, which still keeps Possession of the Place, under Protection of the British Ships of War.

It is probable the Campaign will very soon be opened in Flanders, the Troops having begun to assemble on both Sides and Marshal Count Saxe, it is said, arrived at Brussels the 19th Instant O.S. As to the French, they have already, in some Measure, begun their Operations, and in an extraordinary Manner too; for about the Middle of this Month, they sent a Party of about 1500 Men, under M. de Clermont Gallerande, to reconnoitre the Outworks of Bergen op Zoom, which was for some Time within Cannon shot of the Place, and not only plundered but committed great Outrages in several Villages within the Territories of the States General, which is the first seeming Hostility the French have committed against their HighMightinesses, and cannot well be excused, because the Soldiers sold their Plunder publickly in the Market-Place at Antwerp.

The French Merchants begin to exclaim loudly against the War with Great-Britain, on Account of the bad Luck they have lately met with; for of 102 Sail of Merchant Ships, with 2 Men of War and 4 Indiamen, which sailed from Martinico on the 8th of January N.S. 40 Sail of the Merchant Ships are still missing, and 7 have been cast away on the Coast of Lower Normandy. Besides this, they have an Account, that the Fleet bound from Europe to Cape François, had, in their Passage from Martinico, been chaced by some British Men of War and Privateers, and that of 30 Sail, only 15 were arrived at Cape François. Upon this the Merchants have delivered a Memorial, in which they represent, that since the War began, they have lost by Captures 189 Millions of Livres, mounting to 7,875,000 l. Sterling. To balance this, and to keep up the people's Spirits, they are fitting out at Brest a Squadron of 10 Men of War, and some Transports, which is designed, they say, upon a secret Expedition of great Importance; and they add further, that they shall have next Campaign an Army of 150,000 Men under Marshal Saxe in Brabant, besides an Army of 33,000 Men now assembling upon the Mosille under Count Lautrée, with which they intend to besiege Luxemburg, the Governor of which Place is, indeed, expecting and preparing for a Siege; having ordered the Streets to be unpaved, and all useless Mouths to depart the City.

MONDAY, 9.

Lord Lovat's Trial began in Westminster-Hall, the Right Hon. the Lord Hardwicke, Lord High Chancellor, being Lord High Steward on the Occasion. The Managers for the House of Commons were Sir William Yonge, Mr. Attorney-General, Mr. Sollicitor-General, Lord Barrington, Lord Coke, Mr. Legg, Mr. Noel, Sir John Strange, Sir Richard Lloyd, Mr. Yorke, Mr. Grenville, and Mr. Littleton.

WEDNESDAY, 11.

This Night there was a Meeting of the Merchants of London, at the Crown Tavern behind the Royal Exchange, when Thomas Godfrey, Esq; was chosen Chairman; and it was resolved to petition the Honourable House of Commons for the better Protection of the Trade; and a Committee was appointed to draw up a Petition accordingly.

WEDNESDAY, 18.

Lord Lovat's Trial being over, the Lord High Steward put the Question, Whether or no he was guilty of High Treason? beginning with the Junior Lord, Arthur Lord Herbert of Cherbury, who (according to Custom) stood up uncover'd and laying his Right Hand upon his Left Breast, said, Guilty upon my Honour; as did all the rest of the Lords.

THURSDAY, 19.

The Lord Lovat had Sentence of Death pass'd upon him in the usual Form: After which the Lord High Steward stood up and broke his Staff, and dissolv'd his Commission.

WEDNESDAY, 25.

On the 4th Instant his Majesty's Ship the Hampton-Court, in Company with several other Ships, took the Compte de Lowendahl Privateer of Dunkirk, of 20 Guns and 175 Men; and on the 11th, the Neptune de Rouen, one of the French Martinico Fleet.

There was Advice from Paris, of the 10th Instant O. S. That a Courier arrived there with the News of the Death of the Queen Consort of King Stanislaus, Mother to the Queen of France.

We also learn from the Hague, That on the 11th O. S. the Transports ports, with the Troops from England, as alſo thoſe from Scotland, arrived at Williamſtadt; whereupon the Duke of Cumberland ſet out next day from the Hague to review them, and returned on the 16th to ſettle every Thing relating to the Operations of the next Campaign in Flanders, where we are to have by Computation an Army of 140,000 Men.

CHARLES-TOWN, June 8.

On Sunday the 31ſt ult. died the Rev. Mr Robert Betham, Aſſiſtant to the Rev. Mr. Commiſſary Garden, Rector of this Pariſh: He was of Queen's-College in Oxford, and ſome Time Curate of Ware in Hertfordſhire; a ſound Divine, and a good Preacher; which join'd with an exemplary good Life and Converſation, rendered him much beloved and eſteemed in this Place, and agreeably whoſe Death is no leſs lamented.

On the ſame Day a Veſſel arriv'd from Anguilla, by which we have Advice, of an agreeable Change in the Conduct of Men of War ſtation'd to protect the Trade of the ſeveral Iſlands, ſince the Arrival of Commodore Legge in thoſe Parts; that Gentleman having already given uncommon Satisfaction, by placing the Ships under him in ſuch a Manner, that few or none of the Enemies Privateers come out but are taken, and they now ſcarcely hear of one Engliſh Veſſel being carried into Martinique or Guardaloupe: And, that he was impowered to hold a Court-Martial for the Examination and Tryal of Commodore Lee, having ſent for the neceſſary Evidences for that Purpoſe, from all the Iſlands. —— By the Difference in Conduct of Mr. Legge, from the Gentleman who frequently gave it as his Opinion in Antigua, 'that to ſend a Britiſh 'Man of War after a French Privateer, was but ſending a Cow 'after a Hare,' (when complain'd to of the many Captures made and the ruining of their Trade by the Enemy, and petitioned for Redreſs by ſending out Cruizers to proper Stations) we may almoſt venture to foretell the Event of this Court-Martial, — at leaſt, we forethink what Mr. Lee's Conduct deſerves.

On Tueſday arrived here Mr. George Rupell, lately appointed Searcher of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms, for this Province.

And on Thurſday arriv'd Col. Heron and his Lady, from London.

On Friday Evening arriv'd a Sloop from Antigua, the Maſter of which ſays, that Commodore Legge had ſail'd about a Fortnight ago, to intercept a Fleet of French Men of War and Merchant-ſhips then daily expected at Martinique, of which we hope he will give a good Account; for it is tho't they will not now be ſuffered to paſs by our Men of War, and in ſight of our Iſlands unmoleſted, as (we are ſorry to ſay) they have hitherto more than once done.

The ſame Night died, Mr. William Saxby, Searcher for this Port.

This Afternoon we have Advice, that three Spaniſh Privateers are cruizing off this Bar, viz. one Sloop a little to the Southward, another to the Northward, and a Schooner juſt off the Bar: The latter has chas'd in, a Boat with ſome Gentlemen that were out a pleaſuring, and three of our Pilot-Boats, one of which (Mr. Pharoah's) ſhe purſued from 1 to 3 o'Clock, and miſerably tore her Sails by her Shot, Pharoah being ſo near 'em that they ſeveral Times call'd him by Name and bid him come aboard, to which he giving no other Anſwer than preſently, and crowding away, the Privateer's Men all drew and brandiſhed their Cutlaſſes, and threatened him ſeverely; ſhe alſo follow'd a large Bermuda Sloop bound to London, that went out this Morning, quite upon the Bar, notwithſtanding his Majeſty's Ship the Aldborough is now at Anchor in this Harbour. — Theſe Privateers came from the Southward but Yeſterday, and came to an Anchor laſt Night not far from one of the Pilot-Boats, but they were not then ſuſpected; and 'tis fear'd they may do great Damage (ſeveral Veſſels being hourly expected) unleſs a proper Veſſel is immediately fitted out to go in Queſt of them.
